PREPARING FOR YOUR SESSION

NEWBORN SESSION GUIDE

WHAT TO BRING:

EXTRA BOTTLES

The stimulation of being posed, held, and wiggling around so much works up an appetite, so expect extra feedings.

PACIFIER

This will be to calm the little one in-between set changes, prop swaps etc.

EXTRA CLOTHES

Your little one will almost always mess on you in some way, so an extra change of clothes is always a good idea.

IMPORTANT TIPS:

Keep the baby awake as long as possible and feed them just before you leave home or when you get to the studio.

The studio will be kept very warm, this is for the comfort of the baby so please dress comfortable and in layers.

Come to the studio with your baby dressed down to just their diaper. This is to limit changing in and out of outfits when we are trying to get them to sleep.

MATERNITY SESSION GUIDE

WHEN, WHAT & WHO:

WHEN

Schedule your photography session to take place during your 7th to 8th month of pregnancy. This way you will have a big beautiful round belly but you will still be able to move freely with little discomfort.

COMPANY

Incorporating your spouse, other children, and anyone else who is important in your baby's life is always a welcomed idea.

OUTFITS

The big question is always, "what do I wear?" I find that neutral colours work best, as they are timeless and always flattering. You will also have the opportunity to change so you can bring a second option.

IMPORTANT TIPS:

I find that moms-to-be who have their make-up done professionally always have a little sparkle in their eye. I can schedule to have someone in the studio if this is an option you are interested in.
